Richard Lui

Richard Lui is a journalist and news anchor for MSNBC. Before in 2007 at CNN Worldwide, he became the first Asian American male to anchor a daily, national cable news show. Lui’s reporting has covered includes terrorism and conflict in the Middle East and Asia, and conflicts and terrorism, including starting in the first Iraq War. More recently his field reporting includes Paris and San Bernadino attacks and Ferguson and Baltimore during heightened racial unrest.

Outside of work, Richard travels two or three times each month from New York City to San Francisco to care for his father, an Alzheimer’s patient. To highlight the importance of family caregiving, Richard is an AARP Caregiving Champion and an Alzheimer’s Association Celebrity Champion. He is also an ambassador for the Elizabeth Dole Foundation’s Hidden Heroes campaign that focuses on caregivers in military families.
Isabel Tom

Isabel Tom is the author of The Value of Wrinkles: A Young Perspective on How Loving the Old Will Change Your Life. She is also a wife, mom, daughter, and forever grandchild who is passionate about serving the older adult population. Between growing up in an intergenerational household and working in the field of aging, Isabel has over 35 years of experience with older adults. Her grandparents, who lived until 98 and 102, had a profound impact on her life.

Professionally, she has over 13 years of experience working at reputable healthcare organizations in the senior living and hospice care field. She holds a Master in Public Health from the University of Maryland, College-Park. You can learn more about her book at https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Mo2qEDPY1NY&t=9s.
Erwin J. Tan MD is a physician and fellowship trained in geriatric and integrative medicine. He is the AARP Director of Thought Leadership-Health. Erwin previously served as the Director of Senior Corps at the Corporation for National and Community Service. From 2004 to 2010, he served as an Assistant Professor of Medicine at the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine where he was an attending physician in the Division of Geriatric Medicine. He was also a co-investigator in the Baltimore Experience Corps Study.

From 2003-2004, Erwin was a White House Fellow serving as a Special Assistant to the Secretary of Veterans Affairs. Before coming to the Washington, D.C. Metropolitan area, Erwin was a faculty member at the University of California, San Francisco School of Medicine, where he was the Medical Director for the High User Case Management Program and served as Geriatric Medicine Fellow and a Primary Care Medicine Resident. Erwin served on the San Francisco Department of Public Health’s Bioterrorism Working group. Erwin was commissioned as a 2nd Lieutenant in the United States Army Reserves and received training in Chemical, Biological and Nuclear Warfare. He received a bachelor’s from Brown University where he attended the Tougaloo College exchange program. Dr. Tan graduated from New York University School of Medicine as a member of the Alpha Omega Alpha honor society. Erwin was born in Indonesia and is a naturalized citizen of the United States.